THE SCHERMER BULLETIN

Tomorrow is election day. One of the things that have bothered us over the years is that not enough people in this area vote. Someone once said something like "people get the kind of government they deserve." you don't bother to vote, then you really can't complain. And if you do approve of the government they deserve." If you don't bother to vote, then you really can't complain. And aif you do approve of the confidence once in a while, signified by a large turnout at the noils.

One of the problems that has plagued this area for years is drainage. Avery attended a breakfast meeting last week along with the three mayors and Congressman Mel Price. He promised to see what he could do to speed up the program of the Corps of Engineers. Now, if you would take the trouble to write to him telling him that you understand he is working on this problem in your behalf, maybe he would attack it with double vigor. It surely couldn't hurt. In the course of the meeting the Congressman said something like "I'r eally don't know how interested the people are in this problem." Letters from his constituents could make the point.

In tomorrow's balloting in the Venice Park District, two incumbents and two others are seeking two board positions.
